Waterbury Connecticut October 5, 2010 – Glenwood Systems LLC announces today that The Certification Commission for Healthcare Information Technology (CCHIT®) has certified GlaceEMR v4.5 as a CCHIT Certified® 2011 Ambulatory EHR and has awarded GlaceEMR v4.5 a five (5) Star Usability rating. GlaceEMR v4.5 meets the Certification Commission's electronic health record (EHR) criteria for office-based use. Ambulatory EHRs are designed for physician offices and clinics where most Americans get their healthcare. The Commission – a private, nonprofit organization – is a Recognized Certification Body in the United States for certifying health information technology products.

“CCHIT 2011 certified GlaceEMRSM v4.5 is a CCHIT 5 Star Usability rated electronic medical record system that is robust, flexible, customizable clinical documentation software that makes the practice of medicine easier for the physician and staff while improving revenue capture” said Nat Loganathan, Founder and CEO of Glenwood Systems LLC. “GlaceEMR v4.5 is designed to improve efficiencies in the office by streamlining workflow, implementing consistent documentation for all areas of the patient encounter, reducing practice costs, and improving the billing process to help the practice reach a 99% + rate of collections.”

The CCHIT Certified® 2011 certification programs include a rigorous inspection of integrated EHR functionality, interoperability, and security according to criteria independently developed by the CCHIT's multi-stakeholder, expert work groups using CCHIT's published testing methods.

The CCHIT Certified “seal of approval” for EHR products provides a consensus-based, government-recognized benchmark for ambulatory EHR products. By looking to products with the CCHIT Certified seal, physicians and other providers can reduce their risk in selecting an EHR product, allowing them to focus their evaluation on the specific needs of their practices.
